Area subscribers are now being offered direct access to the following databases that have been selected as being appropriate for K-12 students. Grouped according to school level, these packages have been assembled in an effort to further enable independent research and foster higher level thinking skills.

Offered as a shared service to all component school districts of Eastern Suffolk BOCES, any district wishing to subscribe should contact us about purchasing the necessary licenses.

Students needing assistance with the following pages should speak to their school librarian.

The image shows a screenshot of a web browser displaying the ABC-CLIO American History website. The browser's address bar shows the URL: <http://americanhistory.abc-clio.es.ivc.scoobid.net/Tools/ResearchLists>. The website header features the ABC-CLIO logo and the text "American History". A navigation bar includes links for "SWITCH DATABASES", "ERAS", "ANALYZE", and "ADVANCED SEARCH", along with a "Quick Search" field. A red arrow points to a "RESEARCH LISTS" link in the top right corner, which is enclosed in a red rectangular box. Below this link are options for "STAFF EDITION", "HELP", "Cochran High School Home", and "LOGOUT". The main content area is divided into two sections: "Explore an Era" and "Analyze". The "Explore an Era" section features a large illustration of a cotton plantation and includes the title "King Cotton" and a description: "An Expanding Nation, 1790-1850. A multipart exploration focusing on the importance of the cotton crop to the American South. more". The "Analyze" section features a smaller illustration of a group of people and includes the title "From Horse to Iron Horse" and a description: "The West, 1850-1900. What effect did European transportation have on the Great Plains Indians? More". The footer of the page shows the URL and the text "Internet 100%".
